

2018 Sir James Dunn Animal Welfare Graduate Scholarship
deadline: noon, Friday, Feb. 16, 2018

The Sir James Dunn Animal Welfare Centre at the Atlantic Veterinary College, UPEI, Canada, is calling for applications from potential graduate students for the 2018 Sir James Dunn Animal Welfare Graduate Scholarship. The Scholarship will support the training of researchers at the masters or doctoral level to pursue animal welfare research at the University of Prince Edward Island. Both applied or more fundamental approaches to research pertaining to animal welfare are welcome. Applications for 2018 will be accepted until 12pm (noon) (AST) Friday February 16, 2018, with decisions to be announced in April. Students may take up their award at any time of the year but must do so within 12 months of the date of the letter of offer.

Application info: <http://awc.upei.ca/2018-sir-james-dunn-animal-welfare-graduate-scholarship/>

Please note: All potential graduate students must identify a graduate faculty member willing to supervise the student should the application be successful. This must be included with the application.